Illinois History

The original inhabitants of the area that is now called Illinois were the Chickasaw, the Dakota Sioux tribe, the Ho-Chunk (also called Winnebago), the Illini, the Miami and the Shawnee.

Mississippian Culture was established. This was the last of the mound-building cultures of North America in Midwestern, Eastern, and Southeastern United States.

Jacques Marquette (1637-1675) and Louis Joliet (1645-1700) explored Illinois in 1673.

The Iroquois entered the area now called Illinois and attacked the Illinois Confederacy tribes. Many were killed in the conflict.

René Robert Cavelier, Sieur de La Salle (1643-1687) and Henry de Tonty (1650-1704) built Fort Crèvecoeur in 1699.

French priests founded a mission at Cahokia, the oldest permanent European settlement in Illinois, in what is now St. Clair County.

Kaskaskia was founded by the French as an Indian mission by Jesuit missionaries.

The First French Fox War (1712–1716) began when Fox, Kickapoo, and Mascouten attacked Fort Pontchartrain.

Fort de Chartres was founded by settlers from France.

The Second Fox War (1728–1733). The Fox were reduced to 500 by French troops and Indian allies. The Fox tribe joined the Sauk Tribe after defeat.

The French Indian War was won by Great Britain against the French. France then ceded the Illinois Country to Great Britain. Kaskaskia became the British seat of government.

The Ottawa Chief Pontiac (1720-1769) led a rebellion of a number of tribes against the British.

Illinois became a county of Virginia after Americans captured Kaskaskia.

Virginia relinquished its claim.

Congress made Illinois part of the Northwest Territory.

By a Special Act of Congress, 400 acres of land were granted to each head of a family who had made improvements in Illinois before 1788.

Indian tribes ceded land to the U.S.

The Northwest Territory was divided. The area that is now Illinois became a part of Indiana Territory.

The area that is now Illinois became part of the Louisiana Purchase.

Conflict erupted between settlers and the Illinois, Iroquois, Chippewa, Ottawa, Potawatomi, Kickapoo, Kaskaskia, Miami, Shawnee, Sauk and Fox tribes throughout the 1800's.

Kaskaskia Indians ceded nearly all of their lands to the U.S. government.

Tribes in the northwest, central, southeast and southwest part of Illinois ceded land to the U.S.

The Illinois Territory was formed when the Indiana Territory was divided.

Fort Dearborn (now Chicago): after settlers killed an Indian holding a truce flag, they were massacred by Potawatomi warriors.

Peoria War was a battle between the U. S. Army, settlers and the Potawatomi and the Kickapoo tribes in the Peoria area of Illinois. Indian villages were attacked and the tribes left the area.

More tribes ceded land to the U.S. government.

Illinois became a state; the Wisconsin region was transferred to the Michigan Territory.

The census listed 917 slaves and 457 free African Americans.

Opening the Erie Canal hastened European settlement in Illinois. Fifty-three Norwegian families settled in Fox River, by the way of the Erie Canal.

Battles between the U.S. Army and settlers against the Potawatomi and Kickapoo tribes resumed in the 1800's.
Winnebago War of 1827
1829: Chippewa, Ottawa, and Potawatomi ceded lands to the U.S.
1830: The Indian Removal Act passed by U.S. government.
1832: Black Hawk War - When Chief Black Hawk and some of his people re-crossed the Mississippi River in order to plant corn in the Sauk’s old corn field, settlers killed an Indian holding a truce flag. Sauks led by Chief Black Hawk massacred settlers near Rock River. The Sauk and Fox warriors were defeated and driven from the state. Kickapoo Indians were removed to Kansas.
1832: The Department of Indian Affairs was established by the U. S. government.
1833: Chicago became a town on the former site of Fort Dearborn
1836: A second Norwegian settlement was established at Mission in LaSalle County.
1838–1856 Improvements in transportation hastened immigration to the northern counties:
   • The National Road reached Vandalia, now in Fayette County, in 1838.
   • The Illinois and Michigan Canal opened in 1848. It ran from Chicago to LaSalle.
   • The Illinois Central Railroad was completed in 1856, linking southern Illinois to Chicago.
1839: Cherokee Indians passed through Illinois on the "Trail of Tears" to Oklahoma
1840: The U. S. Census listed 331 slaves and 3,598 free African American in Illinois.
1839–1846: Latter-day Saints from Missouri and Ohio built the city of Nauvoo before their westward exodus.
1847: Hollanders arrived from Krabbenden and settled the area now called the city of Roseland on the south side of Chicago.
1861–1865: About 250,000 Illinois men served in the Union armed forces during the Civil War, although Southern Illinois contained many citizens sympathetic to the South.
1871: The Great Chicago Fire destroyed much of Chicago’s downtown area and its public records.
1898: Over 300,000 Illinois men were involved in the Spanish American War.

Illinois Birth records
Before 1877 only 30% of the counties in Illinois recorded birth records.
Between 1877 and 1916: In 1877, Illinois required all births be reported to the county clerk; however, many were not reported because compliance was not enforced.
Birth Records After 1916: Statewide registration of births began in 1916; by 1922 all births were being recorded.

Obtain Illinois Birth Records
Birth records before 1916 to the present can be obtained from the County Clerk’s Office. Call or visit the office or view their website for information about how to obtain a birth record.

Illinois Regional Archives Depositories –IRAD - have pre-1916 birth records for many counties. IRAD ordering information is found on the Illinois Secretary of State website.
Copies from IRAD are for genealogical purposes only. They may cost less than copies from the county.

The Illinois Department of Public Health Vital Records Office has copies of birth records from 1916 to present day.
To obtain a birth certificate of a person born within the last 75 years you must be:
   • The person on the certificate
   • The parents shown on the certificate
   • A legal guardian or legal representative of the child. Written evidence of guardianship or legal representation is required.
Illinois Marriage Records

Colonial Illinois marriages: The Kaskaskia Manuscripts: 1708 – 1816 include marriage contracts created during those years in the area settled by the French that they called Kaskasia. View microfilms of the manuscripts at the History and Genealogy Department, St. Louis County Library and at Illinois State University in Champaign/Urbana.

Marriage records are kept by the County Clerks beginning with the year the county was created. A few records date from the 1790s, but couples were not required to obtain a marriage license until 1877. Starting in 1877, pre-printed marriage register books in Illinois provided columns for ages, residences, birth places, and sometimes the names of the parents or guardians of the bride and groom.

Obtain Copies

- Call or visit the County Clerk’s Office or view their website for information about how to obtain a marriage record.
- Copies of pre-1916 marriage records may also be available from Illinois Regional Archives Depositories (IRAD). View a list of the years of marriage records held by the IRAD system for each county on the IRAD Local Governmental Records Listing. Ordering information is found in each depository’s section on the website. Copies from IRAD are for genealogical purposes only. They may cost less than copies from the county.

Illinois Death Records

Records from 1877 to 1916: Death records before 1916 were recorded by the county clerks. Most county clerks did not record deaths until 1877.

Obtain Copies of Illinois Death Records Prior to 1916 – 2 Choices:

- Get copies of death records filed before 1916 from IRAD (Illinois Regional Archives Depository) if IRAD holds death records for that particular county. View a list of the years of death records held by the IRAD system for each county on the IRAD Local Governmental Records Listing. Ordering information is found in each depository’s section on the website.
- Get a copy of a death record from the County Clerk in the county where the death occurred.

Obtain Copies of Illinois Death Certificates dated on or after January 1, 1916 – 3 Choices:

- Visit the Illinois State Archives Reference Room — the following information will be needed from the State Archives database: decedent’s name; date of death; name of county, and death certificate number.
- Obtain certified copies from the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Vital Records
- Contact the appropriate County Clerk in the county where the death occurred.
