It All Adds Up

In April 2017, Hayner Library introduced a You Just Saved... message on the bottom of all patron due date slips. The You Just Saved... message helps to remind patrons of the value of library services by displaying how much it would cost to purchase the items that were just checked out. The You Just Saved... message also includes the total value of your year-to-date transactions and the “lifetime” value of all transactions since the feature was implemented.

Theresa McDonald (Hayner Library Assistant) was amazed to find that she saved $11,562.75 just by using the library! In fact, in just one year, Hayner Library patrons have checked out over $6 million worth of library materials! We hope you have enjoyed watching your savings grow with each visit to the library.
Marilyn Stewart Biography

Marilyn Stewart has been working for The Hayner Public Library District since 2010. In 2009, before becoming a library employee, Marilyn volunteered at the Downtown Library. As a volunteer, she was very organized and kept our books in order.

Marilyn began her career in retail at Venture and was eventually promoted to Human Resources Assistant. With that experience and a little more education, she was hired as Director of Human Resources at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City. She later worked at Saint Anthony’s Health Center in Alton as Manager, Human Resources and Business Operations.

I have known Marilyn for many years. She was a dear friend of my cousin Mary Ann. Marilyn and I helped Mary Ann get ready for her wedding and we became fast friends. As happens in life, we grew apart with marriages, work and families. But the pendulum always swings back—and Marilyn came to the library to volunteer. I was sorry to see her leave as a volunteer but, when a position opened up within the library, I was happy that she would be joining us as a staff member.

Marilyn has fond memories of growing up in the Milton area before it was incorporated by Alton. Marilyn adored her parents. Her dad was self-employed and very entrepreneurial. His first business was C.L. Gissler Shoe Repair and Dry Cleaning, which he ran for 26 years. Marilyn had a brother who was 10 years older. Marilyn, her brother, and her mom all worked at the shop. She feels that this is where she got her business acumen. Since her brother was older and left home when she was young, she felt like an only child. There was very little that she did without. Her dad would say, “It’s not a matter of needing it but a matter of wanting it.”

She said her dad was a very generous person. He was the middle of three children; he had an older sister and a younger brother who was killed in WWII. Her dad had a 160 acre farm between White Hall and Winchester, Illinois, 80 acres in Scott County, and 80 acres in Greene County. He would take weekend trips to the farm. Marilyn and her mother really didn’t like the farm—there was no running water nor any indoor plumbing or electricity. There were no modern conveniences like the girls knew and loved at home; it was not a fun outing for them. Her dad had quite a sense of humor. One time while visiting the farm, Marilyn asked her dad where to hang her coat. He got out a hammer and nail and hammered into the wall. He told her to hang her coat on the nail. While visiting the farm her dad would often fry up squirrel and ask if she wanted the brain. She would laugh. She still loves fried squirrel.

When her dad retired from the shoe repair business he purchased a Red & White grocery store in Alsey, IL. If you blink once you might miss this little town. Marilyn told me this grocery store was right out of Green Acres. There was a potbelly stove in the store and all the townsfolk gathered around for their daily social gathering.

Marilyn’s mom was the third of nine children and lived on a farm north of Brighton. She worked very hard taking care of Marilyn and her brother. She says her mom was the best mom and took great care of her children. Marilyn attended grade school in Alton and graduated from Alton Senior High School and Monticello College in Godfrey. She then attended SIUE and graduated from McKendree College.

While at Monticello she met Tom, her husband of 45 years. I asked Marilyn what made Tom so special and unique. She told me he is the most kind and generous person she knows. And, oh yes, he adores her! What she didn’t say, but I know from other conversations, is that Tom is an excellent cook and does 99% of the cooking!

Marilyn is an avid mystery reader. She and Tom have always used Hayner Library for all their reading materials. She also loves to fish and travel with Tom. She loves to spend time relaxing with her knitting. Marilyn is the Business Operations and Human Resources Assistant at the library, a position she has held since she began working here. She says working at the library has been very enjoyable because of her fun and unique coworkers.

I always ask the people I write about if they have a piece of advice for living into today’s world. She said she has two pieces of advice. The first, from personal experience, is to always use sunscreen and wear a hat. The second and most important piece of advice is not to take yourself too seriously. She says others may not remember what you said or what you did but they will always remember how you made them feel! Marilyn makes working at Hayner Library enjoyable and she is always ready to help her coworkers. She too is very unique!

Famous Former Librarians

It’s always the quiet ones! After he became known as the world's greatest lover, Giacomo Casanova worked for 13 years cataloging and organizing the books in Count Waldstein’s castle in Dux, Bohemia.

Former first lady Laura Bush is also a former librarian! After earning a Master of Science degree in Library Science from the University of Texas at Austin, she worked as a school librarian in Houston and Austin.

Perhaps J. Edgar Hoover became the director of the FBI to track down lost library books! While employed at the Library of Congress, Hoover mastered their classification system and used those skills for the FBI's files.

Perhaps Beverly Cleary got tired of shelving the same old children’s books and decided to write a few of her own. Before penning over 40 children’s books, including the treasured Ramona Quimby series, Cleary worked for a children's library in Yakima, Washington and as the post librarian at the U.S. Army Hospital in Oakland, California.

Like many writers, Lewis Carroll was an avid reader. So it’s only natural that he worked in a library before he wrote Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland.

The Results Are In!

In our last newsletter, we conducted a patron poll asking you which type of cookbook you are most likely to check out. It appears that you lead busy lives—because a majority of voters said that cookbooks for quick-and-easy meals are the most popular!
Don’t Be Scared of Friday, April 13!

Many stories involve misfortunes occurring on Friday the 13th. But there’s no need to fret! Take into consideration these good events that have taken place on various Friday the 13ths before you hide in the safety of your home this year!

- Finland has used this allegedly unlucky day to do some good! In 1995 they introduced National Accident Day, which educates citizens on automotive safety and hazards in the workplace.
- Apollo 11 might not have made it to the moon in 1969 if not for the British Interplanetary Society. These space enthusiasts assembled in October 1933 to educate the public on the wonders of the galaxy and the possibility of space exploration. Thanks to the efforts from societies like these NASA has been able to do many things, including finding evidence of water on the moon, which was reported to the public on a Friday the 13th in 2009.
- Heavy metal music is an adrenaline rush of sound for some and a headache for others. So the fact that the first heavy metal album was released in on a Friday the 13th in 1970 could be considered a good or bad thing.
- Weird Al Yankovic fans rejoice! The first U.S. patent for an accordion was granted to Anthony Faas on Friday, January 13, 1854.
- The Super Mario Brothers Nintendo game was released on Friday, September 13, 1985, in Japan.
- The film industry hasn’t been the same since Friday, July 13, 1923, when the Hollywoodland sign was officially dedicated in Los Angeles. It was in 1949, while being repaired, that “land” was dropped from the original sign—and an icon was born!

Food for Fido

April is Prevention of Animal Cruelty Month, and in commemoration of this, Hayner Library at Alton Square Mall and Hayner Downtown Library will collect pet food and supplies that will be given to the Alton Area 5 A’s Animal Shelter. This no-kill shelter is completely dependent upon donations and is run by a dedicated staff who work tirelessly to provide care for an overwhelming number of unwanted animals. From April 1 through April 30, if you have an overdue item, you may pay your fine with an item of pet food. This amnesty applies to Hayner materials only. Library materials must be returned with the donation and at least one donation made for each fine.

Please help our friends at the 5 A’s—they work so hard to care for the sadly constant stream of unwanted, neglected, or abused animals brought to the shelter. The shelter is located at 4530 N. Alby Road, Godfrey, and can be reached at 466-3702. Stop by and visit this wonderful facility, perhaps find a new BFF (Best Friend Forever). And, of course, volunteers are ALWAYS welcome.

Super Hero Story Time at Hayner Library in the Alton Square Mall
Patrons Benefit from High Speed Internet

In October 2017, patrons using the public computers at all Hayner Library locations began to notice a significant increase in the speed of the network—all thanks to the installation of a new Internet fiber connection. The installation, which began in late October and took three months to complete, required extensive network upgrades at the Hayner Library in Alton Square Mall as well as both downtown locations.

The Assistant Director of Information Technology at Hayner Library was able to secure funding for this project through the E-rate program administered by the Universal Service Administrative Company under the direction of the Federal Communications Commission. The E-rate program provides discounts to assist most schools and libraries in the United States to obtain affordable telecommunications and Internet access.

The installation of the new 50Mb Internet connection now allows patrons to access the Internet at significantly higher speeds. It also allows library staff to access the Polaris circulation software without delays in service or a constant need to restart the program—issues that had previously been a problem due to a lack of bandwidth available at the libraries.

The Hayner Public Library District is committed to providing patrons with free access to technology. There are combined 50 public computers available for patron use at all three Hayner Library locations. Patrons may access the public computers during regular library hours; patrons can register for computer use using either a library card or current non-expired driver’s license or state ID card.

Genealogy & Local History Audio Tour Updated!

Have you ever wondered why our library district is named after Jennie D. Hayner? Did you know that we almost lost our entire collection to the Quincy Public Library in 1865? Want to learn the history behind the beautiful oil paintings in the Genealogy & Local History Library, some of which we’ve owned for over 100 years? Come listen to our audio tour!

We have ten handsets loaded with the audio tour and historic photographs. The handsets are easy to use, with adjustable volume and a printed instruction sheet.

The tour includes sections on Hayner Library history, the Hayner family, the original building, our most important works of art, and stories related to the local history displays. Our current displays are Hayner Library History, the Haskell Playhouse, Alton Railroads, Elijah Lovejoy, Western Military Academy, artist Agnes Millen Richmond, Monticello Seminary, Illinois Glass Company, and historic Alton postcards.

A few interesting facts from the tour:

In 1867, Ralph Waldo Emerson, whose brother William was practicing medicine in Alton at the time, gave a very well-attended and -received lecture titled “American Culture” to benefit the library.

Alton native Agnes Millen Richmond’s paintings were featured at the 1915 World’s Fair Panama–Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco.

Elijah Lovejoy’s son Edward (1836-1891) worked in the newspaper business for a time, where he wrote articles defending the rights of Japanese Americans and attacking the denial of civil rights when a school district refused to integrate African Americans.

There was an intense football rivalry between Alton High School and Western Military Academy. They first played against each other in 1904. Alton was winning 6-0 when the game ended early due to lightning. The next weekend, a fight broke out between the Alton High players and Western cadets. When Western officials were unable to stop the fight, the cadet corps was locked up in their quarters for the remainder of the afternoon. The two teams didn’t meet on the football field again until 1907.

Lifespan Linked to Reading Habits

According to a study conducted by researchers at Yale University School of Public Health, reading as little as 30 minutes each day may be linked to longer life. The researchers gathered data from 3,635 people over the age of 50 who had participated in a national Health and Retirement Study. Participants answered questions about their reading habits, and the Yale team compared this information to their physical health over a 12 year follow-up period. In short, the results showed that the more a person reads, the more likely they are to live a longer life. Overall, readers lived about two years longer than non-readers!

Switchback
Sunday, June 3, 2:00 p.m.

Note: This program will be held in the Benjamin Godfrey Chapel on the campus of Lewis & Clark Community College, 5800 Godfrey Road, Godfrey, IL.

Switchback returns! Two of our favorite performers on the circuit! “A successful show for us is like an amusement ride—it’s a rush,” says Brian FitzGerald of the renowned musical duo Switchback. “Our Irish is a little more aggressive, and it’s coming at you a little harder because we are coming out of small, jaunty Irish bars. There’s a lot of enthusiasm and a lot of energy to our show.”

FitzGerald and Martin McCormack showcase a repertoire ranging from sentimental ballads to blistering honky-tonk. The duo delivers a powerful, riveting sound rivaling that of larger ensembles. They move through a variety of genres but never abandon their Celtic roots. They accompany their music with the rhythmic cadence of their dancing shoes. Don’t miss your chance to see and hear these amazing performers!

This program is jointly presented by The Hayner Public Library District and the Music Department of Lewis & Clark Community College.

Benjamin Godfrey Book Receives International Award!

Our very own Seymour Bluffs and Benjamin Godfrey book has received an international award! The book was entered as a Group Project in the Industrial Arts/Technology Prepress division of the Gutenberg Awards and took second place. Local author Phyllis Bechtold and Genealogy & Local History Library Manager Lacy McDonald wrote and edited Seymour Bluffs and Benjamin Godfrey last year, and Lexa Browning-Needham’s Alton High School Graphic Communications students created the illustrations, Blippar app content, and page layout. The Gutenberg Awards are sponsored by the Graphic Communications Education Association and entries are scrutinized for page layout and design difficulty, the use of graphics, typography, difficulty, and presentation. Austin Curvey, Jake Edelen, Julianna Fair, Shaw Smeltzer-Baer, Anna Summers, Chance Stice and Tristan Wuellner were extremely dedicated, and spent time in and out of the classroom working on the project. This award celebrates the time and energy they put into the book.

Seymour Bluffs and Benjamin Godfrey can be checked out in the Alton Square and Downtown libraries (call number: EB GODFREY) and read anytime in the Genealogy & Local History Library (IR B GODFREY). Come check out the students’ award winning work!

Now, What are You Going to Do With Your Life?!?

The next stage in your life will be an adventure that can be exciting but also very stressful. Attending college, job hunting and living on your own is a lot to manage! Here are a few tips to help ease your transition.

College Life

- Toto, I have a feeling we’re not in high school anymore! — Unlike your high school teachers, your college professors are not going to hound you about homework or remind you over and over about upcoming tests. Sounds like a dream come true, huh? Well, miss a few assignments and flunk a few tests, and that dream will become a nightmare! Get organized and take responsibility for your own schoolwork.
- Take care of yourself. — Living away from your parents in a dorm or starter apartment can be just as overwhelming as it is exciting. Your education, finances, social life, schedule, as well as your physical and mental health, will be your own responsibility. Don’t give up the moment you feel stressed for the first time; give yourself time to adjust to your new life, and seek help from family, friends or professionals, if needed.

Job Application Tips

- Your first impression does not happen at an interview. It begins when you pick up the job application. Remember to dress nicely, be well-groomed, bring your own pen, and be polite.
- If possible, take the application home so you can take your time, print neatly, and double check your information.
- Try to fill in as much information as possible. Write “N/A” in areas that don’t apply to you rather than leaving a section blank.

Resume Tips

- Stick to the more traditional Times New Roman font with a 9-12 point font size.
- You may think you don’t have enough experience to list on a resume but you can always list your academic achievements such as a high GPA, any academic awards, or that you’ve taken a specialty course related to the job for which you are applying.
- Remember to proofread. Then, go back and proofread again. And when you think your resume looks good, have somebody else proofread it!

Job Interviews

- Arrive a few minutes early. Never be late. —Bernadette, Executive Director, The Hayner Public Library District
- One of the biggest things I look for is a candidate who has done his or her homework. It’s important to do research on the organization to which you are applying and be able to demonstrate that you understand the value of that organization. —Lacy, Manager, Genealogy & Local History Library
- A follow-up thank you note is always appreciated, and may even be the deciding factor if I have multiple qualified candidates. —Sue, Assistant Director, Human Resources
- Turn off your cell phone. Turn it off completely; even the vibrate setting can be distracting. —Mary, Assistant Director, Circulation and Strategic Services

Please Indulge My Reminiscence

Growing up (and long before I was employed at Hayner Library), my family and I were frequent visitors to the children’s library which, at that time, was located in the Hayner Library building at 401 State Street, Alton. During one particular visit, I noticed a set of stairs behind the Circulation Desk leading downward into the unknown. Being five years old at the time, I was under the impression that my mother knew the answer to every question on the face of the Earth—so naturally I asked her where the stairs led.

While my mother is smart, it turns out she does not know the answer to every question, and she did not know the answer to this one. But, not wanting to disappoint me, she did what every mother does at one time or another—she thought on her feet and made something up! She told me that the stairs led to the area where they made the books!

In 2005, I was lucky enough to be hired by The Hayner Public Library District; I worked part-time as a Page at the Alton Square Library where I spent my time shelving books and keeping the materials in order.

As time progressed, I was promoted to a part-time Library Assistant in the Circulation department. I kept my fingers crossed for a full-time position.

In 2009, I was promoted to full-time status—but there was a catch. My time would have to be split between working in the Circulation department as well as the Technical Services department. The Technical Services department is housed in the lower level of the former children’s library. There are a number of tasks to perform, but my main job is processing new materials in order to make them ready for the shelves. Wow! My mother wasn’t far off in her description!

While I periodically help at the circulation desk when needed, I eventually moved exclusively to the Technical Services department where I “make the books.”

We would love to hear your own personal library memories. You may email your memories to memories@haynerlibrary.org. Please include your name and contact information (email and telephone number).

Benjamin Franklin, Librarian

Being a founding member of one of the first lending libraries in the nation can get lost in Benjamin Franklin’s list of accomplishments. However, Franklin’s involvement in the development of libraries in the United States is quite interesting.

In the 1730s books were rare and highly expensive and public libraries, as we know them today, did not exist. This problem was especially troublesome to the members of the Junto Club, a philosophical group who would meet to discuss a wide range of important issues of the day. As intellectual as their group was, they had only a few books amongst them to which they could refer when they needed to settle debates or enrich their knowledge. Therefore, on July 1, 1731, the Junto Club outlined an idea to form a subscription library, which would eventually be called The Library Company, in which the 50 members would invest 40 shillings each towards the purchase of new books. The members agreed to give another 10 shillings each year thereafter towards the purchase of additional books. Franklin initiated the expansion of The Library Company collection by offering memberships to the locals of Philadelphia who might otherwise not have access to books. The idea spread like wildfire when visitors to Philadelphia became impressed by the intelligence and sophistication of the locals. And the rest, as they say, is history.
